ICFF 2018 – ABOUT THE EXHIBITORS

David Trubridge

David Trubridge is an international award-winning design studio based in New Zealand, whose designs strike a balance between tradition and modernity, art and craft, handmade and machined. A connection to and respect for the environment are evident in the natural materials and sustainable production techniques utilized in the designs. Trubridge has been at the forefront of environmentally conscious product development earning an Environmental Product Declaration for its kitset SEED System lights.

HUSH/IQ Commercial

HUSH acoustic lights were developed through a New Zealand-based collaboration between David Trubridge Ltd and IQ Commercial – a pairing of a world class leader in environmentally conscious design and a firm known for its research-based approach to workplace solutions. The lights are made from a minimum of 65% post-consumer PET plastic. HUSH is scientifically proven to significantly reduce reverberated noise priming it for installations in commercial, hospitality and residential spaces. Hush works double duty, providing sound dampening and illumination for your space.

TRuK/Stephen Pikus Design

From Stephen Pikus Design in South Africa, the TRuK range is what we like to call “perfectly imperfect.” Beginning life as engine air filters in diesel trucks, they are repurposed, refinished and upcycled to become beautiful metal lights. Due to their rough beginnings, fixtures may show small blemishes and nicks. While some are too damaged to use, it is expected that TRuK fixtures will not be pristine as part of their inherent quality. Just like humans, the fixtures retain hints of a past life.

ANGO

Angus Hutcheson is the lead designer of the unique ANGO lighting range. With design inspiration drawn from the chaotic, bustling atmosphere of historic Bangkok and the contrasting peacefulness and beauty of rural Thailand, each ANGO light is a unique, handcrafted limited edition. Each piece is made with local, sustainable materials developed by experimentation, such as silk cocoon, rattan and mulberry bark. The low impact/low energy-intensive process shows how enlightened, environmentally responsible 21st century design and production can be.

wakaNINE

wakaNINE is a North American distributor for international lighting designers whose aesthetics blend nature and technology in modern forms, representing David Trubridge and IQ Commercial (New Zealand), Ango (Thailand) and Stephen Pikus Design (South Africa), designers that focus on eco-friendly materials and sustainable production techniques.
